

Simply Put, Dynamit creates web and mobile applications.

But we do a lot more than that. Together with our clients, we identify big opportunities and solve big problems. We serve clients as an end-to-end partner. We shine in situations where simple, intuitive web and mobile solutions can make a big difference in the way our clients do business.

We believe that — done right — technology should simplify. It should make life easier for our clients and their customers.

OUR CLIENTS

We collaborate with incredible companies to achieve breakthrough results for end-users. We work across industries to bring a diverse perspective and an eclectic problem solving approach to each project.

We have deep experience in retail, healthcare, hospitality, banking, and food service. We have experienced firsthand how knowledge gained from one industry can challenge and shape the direction of another.

OUR SERVICES

Dynamit is an end-to-end provider of solutions for mobile and web applications. Our services span a broad spectrum including strategic planning, design and development of web and mobile applications, and even data science. We are known for delivering the best of form and function for our clients, but we pride ourselves on having the discipline to guide clients to the right solutions for their businesses.
