Program Delivery Services: Software Development

Maximize the potential…

Well designed software applications can strengthen the position of a company. Developers help increase awareness and enhance productivity by providing a thorough assortment of data management, web/client/server applications, and test automation.

ComResource encompasses design through support of tailored cutting edge and legacy environment solutions. We help maintain high performing legacy applications, implement modern technical trends and innovations, and help determine the best combination to meet specific needs. We provide qualified, well-trained and supported resources that deliver application enhancements, integration, implementations, migrations, and new solutions.

ComResource Software Development Practice

A growing team of IT Professionals that are part of a company recognized as an IT Delivery Services leader in Central Ohio with nationwide customers.

ComResource developers participate in a variety of roles from support & development to lead & architecture decisions. We recognize potential issues with outsourcing and strive to bridge the gaps with localized interaction of managers, business analysts, test teams, and users.

ComResource places a strong focus on our relationships and ensures we are working with and cultivating industry-leading development professionals.
